Golf

Number 3 Course, Gullane (Par 68, 5259 yards)

Gullane is a picturesque village in East Lothian, approximately 40 minutes drive from Edinburgh. This is one of the most important regions for golf in Europe, if not the world. There are three championship links courses at Gullane. You will be playing course No. 3. All of the courses are characterized by stunning views across the Firth of Forth to Fife and as with all great links courses, the deep pot-bunkers and wild rough are to be avoided at all cost. The No. 3 course was designed by the legendary James Baird.

North Berwick West Links (Par 71, 6464 yards)

You will discover at North Berwick a Club steeped in tradition dating from 1832, providing generous hospitality and a testing golf challenge. The course is a traditional links, which like St Andrews, starts and finishes at the clubhouse within the town, having wound its way along the Firth of Forth.

There are stunning views over white sandy beaches, islands and across to the hills of the East Neuk of Fife. The club is one of the world's oldest golf clubs and in the 19th Century it hosted many of the legendary challenge matches. Today it is proud to be a Final Qualifying venue for the Open Championship, when held at nearby Muirfield, the next occasion being in 2013. In June 2010, the club co-hosted The Amateur Championship with Muirfield, which featured 300 of the best gentlemen amateur golfers in the world.

Archerfield Fidra Golf Course (Par 72, 6,201 yards)

Any new golf course bounded on two sides by world-class golfing venues must be good if it is to stand comparison with its illustrious, long established neighbours.

The Archerfield Fidra course lies between the 8th hole at Muirfield and 9th hole at North Berwick and, although it only opened for play in 2004, the Fidra blends very well into the group of premium golfing destinations in this corner of East Lothian.

Archerfield Links is a private members club, vying with Loch Lomond on the other side of the country for the title of most exclusive golf location north of the border. Golf has been played on the Archerfield estate for a number of centuries and the original 6-hole course was extended to 13 holes in 1869. James Law, former owner of the Scotsman newspaper, enlisted Ben Sayers, the North Berwick professional, to extend the course to a full 18-hole layout around 1910 before the grounds were taken over by the Ministry of Defence during the Second World War.

The Fidra course measures almost 7,000 yards though there are four sets of tees at every hole to allow for varying abilities. Greens are large and receptive, with subtle borrows to test the best of putters. Many putting surfaces have run-up areas in front, enabling golfers to play a traditional bump-and-run shot along the ground.

Accommodation

Graywalls

Greywalls Hotel is uniquely situated on the edge of Muirfield championship golf course with stunning views over East Lothian and the Firth of Forth. Overlooking the world famous greens of the 9th & 18th holes, it has earned itself a reputation as 'a golfers' paradise'.

Offering one of the very best country house accommodations in Scotland, and with 10 golf courses within 5 miles, Greywalls' stylish Edwardian splendour makes for an ideal base for golfing in East Lothian. Designed by the celebrated Edwardian architect Sir Edwin Lutyens as a 'dignified holiday home' Greywalls was built in 1901 and still retains the charm and character for which it is renowned. A haven of peaceful tranquility it enjoys a reputation for the excellence of its food and service. As well as the elegant drawing rooms and delightful dining areas the house has 23 en suite bedrooms.

The delightful walled gardens are attributed to Gertrude Jekyll and contain a hard and grass tennis court, croquet lawn and putting green as well as borders filled with herbaceous plants.

In our opinion, the hotel restaurant provides the best cuisine available anywhere in Scotland. The outstanding meals are matched by exemplary service and a superb wine selection.

All dishes are prepared under the supervision of Executive Chef Albert Roux (Le Gavroche, Maître Cuisinier de France, 3 Michelin Stars) using the freshest of local ingredients. The vegetables are grown in the hotel's kitchen garden.
